

Football and games enthusiasts wanted for our team in Berlin!

Stryking produces and markets interactive digital entertainment worlds based on free-to-play online and mobile games. We combine the real and virtual world to create genuine interaction opportunities for fans, stars and brands. Following this vision we develop and operate a new German Bundesliga Fantasy Manager Game with official license. For this and future projects we need dynamic support:

Intern Marketing (f/m)

You are the right candidate if you love football and games, if you have air for 90 minutes plus extra time and if you want to qualify for Champions League. We are a young and ambitious team, we offer interesting tasks and flat hierarchies. Take the chance to realize your ideas and make things happen. As much as we will grow, so will your responsibility.

Core duties:

- Creation, execution and review of marketing campaigns for our games
- Conception and creation of pitch and speech presentations
- Editorial planning and support of social media channels as well as newsletters
- Trend-scouting and market research
- Identification, Evaluation and Implementation of new tools and applications

Requirements:

- 100% Digital Native
- Online Marketing know-how
- Very good understanding of new tools, apps and gadgets
- High level of perception and good analytical skills in order to handle complex issues
- High level of commitment and creativity
- Proactive, self-motivated and target-oriented work approach
- Prior experience in creating convincing presentations
- Strong affinity to media, brands and sports
- English native speaker, skills in German would be appreciated but not necessary

What you can expect at Stryking

- Young, innovative and fast growing Start-up in an interesting industry
- Excellent development potentialities and high personal responsibility
- Modern and international working environment and a motivated team
- Friendly working atmosphere with a great, professional team which supports each other (if wanted, nerf guns will be provided)
- And yes... we do provide: water, coffee, tea, fruits and Club Mate!

You think that all sound great?

Please send your application including the date you would be able to start working to jobs@stryking.com.